family, and joined his father's MILLER-Miriam "Mimi" music retail business. Over the years, Roy led the growing business - Record World/ TSS into a 90-store chain that spanned the East Coast. What made him so special was that he was an affable gentleman in what was then known to be a rough-andtumble business. He was wellliked and respected by vendors, competitors, and employees. His easy smile and common touch made him equally comfortable on the sales floor and in the boardroom. After retiring in 1992 to the Hamptons with Alice, he pursued his twin passions of boating and golf. These activities gave him an opportunity to build on his vast circle of friends. He led an active and fulfilling life until his last few weeks. Donations in Roy's memory can be made to East End Hospice, West-hampton Beach, NY or the charity of your choice.
