RE: Investigative Expose of the NYS Commission on Judicial Conduct

DATE: July 26, 2002

Enclosed is today's Albany Times-Union article on the just-released 2002 Annual Report of the NYS Commission on Judicial Conduct, in which I am quoted.

As discussed during our July 18th meeting and as you could see for yourself, an investigative expose of the Commission is neither difficult nor time-consuming. The three-fold evidence of the Commission's corruption -- the law, facially-meritorious judicial misconduct complaints, and lawsuit files -- is all readily-verifiable.

Please let me know, as soon as possible, if you are available for such investigative expose -- a logical extension to the Post's periodic "Ten Worst Judges" series in which you have written. If not, I would appreciate your advice as to which Post editors I should be speaking with about getting this fully-documented story assigned to the appropriate Post reporter.
