

Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA)

From: Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA) [elena@judgewidth.org]
Sent: Friday, March 14, 2008 3:07 PM
To: 'mail@intellectualactivist.com'; 'letters@realclearpolitics.com'; 'john@realclearpolitics.com'; 'tom@realclearpolitics.com'
Cc: 'kim.strassel@wsj.com'
Subject: The "real lesson" is the misfeasance of the press, which you have "let off the hook".
Attachments: strassel-media-enablers.pdf

TO: Robert Tracinski, Editor/The Intellectual Activist

You state – in a column appearing at RealClearPolitics.Com – that the “real lesson here” about Eliot Spitzer is the “continuity between Spitzer’s professional career and the scandal that ended it”.

So if this is just “continuity” – WHERE WAS THE PRESS IN THE NINE YEARS IN WHICH MR. SPITZER WAS AT THE TOP OF NEW YORK’S GOVERNMENT, displaying all this conduct?

In the opinion of Kimberly Strassel, who writes for the Wall Street Journal, “the biggest lesson of all” is the press as “Spitzer’s Media Enablers”. I attach her important opinion piece by that title in yesterday’s Wall Street Journal.

Please be advised that in the eight years that Mr. Spitzer was New York’s Attorney General, the press refused to report on his corruption in office -- and the “protectionism” of the courts and criminal and ethics authorities when presented with fully-documented sanctions motions and criminal and ethics complaints against Mr. Spitzer, personally. This press refusal was notwithstanding the readily-verifiable proof of Mr. Spitzer’s corruption and the complicity of governmental officers and agencies was brought to its attention again, and again, and again.

This press includes Gail Collins, former head of The New York Times editorial board, whose column in today’s Times, you rightfully describe as “remarkably insipid” AND Frederic Dicker, Albany bureau chief for the New York Post, whose yesterday’s column, “I Knew He Was a Fraud & A Hypocrite from the Day He Swagged into the Capitol”, you believe misses the point

The website of our nonpartisan, nonprofit citizens’ organization – Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA) – www.judgewidth.org, posts a mountain of our correspondence with the press about Mr. Spitzer – spanning from 1999 to 2006, alerting it to his corruption in office. These are accessible via sidebar panels – including one entitled “Press Suppression”, which features a special topic about the press’ “protectionism” of Mr. Spitzer. The direct link is: <http://www.judgewidth.org/web-pages/press-suppression/press-topic-spitzer.htm>. It will lead you to our “paper trail” of our correspondence with The New York Times and The New York Post. For your convenience, here are links to some specific correspondence: (1) our October 10, 2002 memo DIRECTLY to The New York Times Editorial Board & Ms. Collins: <http://www.judgewidth.org/press-suppression/ny-post/2002/10-10-02-editorial-board.pdf>; (2) our October 10, 2002 memo DIRECTLY to The New York Post Editorial Board: <http://www.judgewidth.org/press-suppression/ny-post/2002/10-10-02-editorial-board.pdf>, as well as our e-mail to Mr. Dicker four days later: <http://www.judgewidth.org/press-suppression/ny-post/2002/10-14-02-e-mail-dicker.pdf>.

We would be eager to work with you and any journalist who takes seriously his First Amendment obligation in developing this important story of press betrayal – one which led to Mr. Spitzer’s landslide re-election as Attorney General in November 2002 and landslide election as Governor in 2006, both engineered by the press. Indeed, it was to vindicate the public’s rights from press’ tortuous, election-rigging conduct, that, two years ago, we brought a public interest lawsuit against The Times – naming Ms. Collins as a defendant, individually and on behalf of the Times’ editorial board. Such groundbreaking lawsuit is the first ever to bring a cause of action for “journalistic fraud” and is based on The Times’ “protectionism” and election-rigging for Mr. Spitzer, among others. It also has been media-suppressed. The full record of the case is accessible from our website, via the sidebar panel “Suing The New York Times”.

Thank you.

3/14/2008

Elena Sassower, Director
Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA)
www.judgewatch.org
914-421-1200

Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA)

From: Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA) [elena@judgewidth.org]
Sent: Friday, March 14, 2008 3:15 PM
To: 'mail@intellectualactivist.com'; 'letters@realclearpolitics.com'; 'john@realclearpolitics.com'; 'tom@realclearpolitics.com'
Cc: 'kim.strassel@wsj.com'
Subject: The correct link for CJA's 2002 pre-election memo to the NYT Editorial Board & Gail Collins -- FW: The "real lesson" is the misfeasance of the press, which you have "let off the hook".
Attachments: strassel-media-enablers.pdf

Oops! The correct link for CJA's October 10, 2002 memo to The New York Times Editorial Board & Ms. Collins is <http://www.judgewidth.org/press-suppression/nyt/2002/10-8-02-editorial-board.pdf> .

From: Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA) [mailto:elena@judgewidth.org]
Sent: Friday, March 14, 2008 3:07 PM
To: 'mail@intellectualactivist.com'; 'letters@realclearpolitics.com'; 'john@realclearpolitics.com'; 'tom@realclearpolitics.com'
Cc: 'kim.strassel@wsj.com'
Subject: The "real lesson" is the misfeasance of the press, which you have "let off the hook".

TO: Robert Tracinski, Editor/The Intellectual Activist

You state – in a column appearing at RealClearPolitics.Com -- that the “real lesson here” about Eliot Spitzer is the “continuity between Spitzer’s professional career and the scandal that ended it”.

So if this is just “continuity” – WHERE WAS THE PRESS IN THE NINE YEARS IN WHICH MR. SPITZER WAS AT THE TOP OF NEW YORK’S GOVERNMENT, displaying all this conduct?

In the opinion of Kimberly Strassel, who writes for the Wall Street Journal, “the biggest lesson of all” is the press as “Spitzer’s Media Enablers”. I attach her important opinion piece by that title in yesterday’s Wall Street Journal.

Please be advised that in the eight years that Mr. Spitzer was New York’s Attorney General, the press refused to report on his corruption in office -- and the “protectionism” of the courts and criminal and ethics authorities when presented with fully-documented sanctions motions and criminal and ethics complaints against Mr. Spitzer, personally. This press refusal was notwithstanding the readily-verifiable proof of Mr. Spitzer’s corruption and the complicity of governmental officers and agencies was brought to its attention again, and again, and again.

This press includes Gail Collins, former head of The New York Times editorial board, whose column in today’s Times, you rightfully describe as “remarkably insipid” AND Frederic Dicker, Albany bureau chief for the New York Post, whose yesterday’s column, “I Knew He Was a Fraud & A Hypocrite from the Day He Swagged into the Capitol”, you believe misses the point

The website of our nonpartisan, nonprofit citizens’ organization – Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA) – www.judgewidth.org, posts a mountain of our correspondence with the press about Mr. Spitzer – spanning from 1999 to 2006, alerting it to his corruption in office. These are accessible via sidebar panels – including one entitled “Press Suppression”, which features a special topic about the press’ “protectionism” of Mr. Spitzer. The direct link is: <http://www.judgewidth.org/web-pages/press-suppression/press-topic-spitzer.htm>. It will lead you to our “paper trail” of our correspondence with The New York Times and The New York Post. For your convenience, here are links to some specific correspondence: (1) our October 10, 2002 memo DIRECTLY to The New York Times Editorial Board & Ms. Collins: <http://www.judgewidth.org/press-suppression/ny-post/2002/10-10-02-editorial-board.pdf>; (2) our October 10, 2002 memo DIRECTLY to The New York Post Editorial Board: <http://www.judgewidth.org/press-suppression/ny-post/2002/10-10-02-editorial-board.pdf>, as well as our e-mail to Mr. Dicker four days later: <http://www.judgewidth.org/press-suppression/ny-post/2002/10-14-02-e-mail-dicker.pdf>.

3/14/2008

We would be eager to work with you and any journalist who takes seriously his First Amendment obligation in developing this important story of press betrayal – one which led to Mr. Spitzer's landslide re-election as Attorney General in November 2002 and landslide election as Governor in 2006, both engineered by the press. Indeed, it was to vindicate the public's rights from press' tortuous, election-rigging conduct, that, two years ago, we brought a public interest lawsuit against The Times – naming Ms. Collins as a defendant, individually and on behalf of the Times' editorial board. Such groundbreaking lawsuit is the first ever to bring a cause of action for "journalistic fraud" and is based on The Times' "protectionism" and election-rigging for Mr. Spitzer, among others. It also has been media-suppressed. The full record of the case is accessible from our website, via the sidebar panel "Suing The New York Times".

Thank you.

Elena Sassower, Director
Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA)
www.judgewatch.org
914-421-1200

Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA)

From: Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA) [elena@judgewidth.org]
Sent: Friday, March 14, 2008 3:33 PM
To: 'mail@intellectualactivist.com'; 'john@realclearpolitics.com'; 'tom@realclearpolitics.com'
Cc: 'kim.strassel@wsj.com'
Subject: Eventually -- FW: The correct link forCJA's 2002 pre-election memo to the NYT Editorial Board & Gail Collins -- FW: The "real lesson" is the misfeasance of the press, which you have "let off the hook".
Attachments: strassel-media-enablers.pdf

I'll get it right. CJA's 2002 pre-election memo to the NYT Editorial Board & Gail Collins is dated October 8, 2002.

From: Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA) [mailto:elena@judgewidth.org]
Sent: Friday, March 14, 2008 3:15 PM
To: 'mail@intellectualactivist.com'; 'letters@realclearpolitics.com'; 'john@realclearpolitics.com'; 'tom@realclearpolitics.com'
Cc: 'kim.strassel@wsj.com'
Subject: The correct link forCJA's 2002 pre-election memo to the NYT Editorial Board & Gail Collins -- FW: The "real lesson" is the misfeasance of the press, which you have "let off the hook".

Oops! The correct link for CJA's October 10, 2002 memo to The New York Times Editorial Board & Ms. Collins is <http://www.judgewidth.org/press-suppression/nyt/2002/10-8-02-editorial-board.pdf>.

From: Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA) [mailto:elena@judgewidth.org]
Sent: Friday, March 14, 2008 3:07 PM
To: 'mail@intellectualactivist.com'; 'letters@realclearpolitics.com'; 'john@realclearpolitics.com'; 'tom@realclearpolitics.com'
Cc: 'kim.strassel@wsj.com'
Subject: The "real lesson" is the misfeasance of the press, which you have "let off the hook".

TO: Robert Tracinski, Editor/The Intellectual Activist

You state – in a column appearing at RealClearPolitics.Com -- that the “real lesson here” about Eliot Spitzer is the “continuity between Spitzer’s professional career and the scandal that ended it”.

So if this is just “continuity” – WHERE WAS THE PRESS IN THE NINE YEARS IN WHICH MR. SPITZER WAS AT THE TOP OF NEW YORK’S GOVERNMENT, displaying all this conduct?

In the opinion of Kimberly Strassel, who writes for the Wall Street Journal, “the biggest lesson of all” is the press as “Spitzer’s Media Enablers”. I attach her important opinion piece by that title in yesterday’s Wall Street Journal.

Please be advised that in the eight years that Mr. Spitzer was New York’s Attorney General, the press refused to report on his corruption in office -- and the “protectionism” of the courts and criminal and ethics authorities when presented with fully-documented sanctions motions and criminal and ethics complaints against Mr. Spitzer, personally. This press refusal was notwithstanding the readily-verifiable proof of Mr. Spitzer’s corruption and the complicity of governmental officers and agencies was brought to its attention again, and again, and again.

This press includes Gail Collins, former head of The New York Times editorial board, whose column in today’s Times, you rightfully describe as “remarkably insipid” AND Frederic Dicker, Albany bureau chief for the New York Post, whose yesterday’s column, “I Knew He Was a Fraud & A Hypocrite from the Day He Swaggered into the Capitol”, you believe misses the point

3/14/2008

The website of our nonpartisan, nonprofit citizens' organization – Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA) – www.judgewatch.org, posts a mountain of our correspondence with the press about Mr. Spitzer – spanning from 1999 to 2006, alerting it to his corruption in office. These are accessible via sidebar panels – including one entitled “Press Suppression”, which features a special topic about the press’ “protectionism” of Mr. Spitzer. The direct link is: <http://www.judgewatch.org/web-pages/press-suppression/press-topic-spitzer.htm>. It will lead you to our “paper trail” of our correspondence with The New York Times and The New York Post. For your convenience, here are links to some specific correspondence: (1) our October 10, 2002 memo DIRECTLY to The New York Times Editorial Board & Ms. Collins: <http://www.judgewatch.org/press-suppression/ny-post/2002/10-10-02-editorial-board.pdf>; (2) our October 10, 2002 memo DIRECTLY to The New York Post Editorial Board: <http://www.judgewatch.org/press-suppression/ny-post/2002/10-10-02-editorial-board.pdf>, as well as our e-mail to Mr. Dicker four days later: <http://www.judgewatch.org/press-suppression/ny-post/2002/10-14-02-e-mail-dicker.pdf>.

We would be eager to work with you and any journalist who takes seriously his First Amendment obligation in developing this important story of press betrayal – one which led to Mr. Spitzer’s landslide re-election as Attorney General in November 2002 and landslide election as Governor in 2006, both engineered by the press. Indeed, it was to vindicate the public’s rights from press’ tortuous, election-rigging conduct, that, two years ago, we brought a public interest lawsuit against The Times – naming Ms. Collins as a defendant, individually and on behalf of the Times’ editorial board. Such groundbreaking lawsuit is the first ever to bring a cause of action for “journalistic fraud” and is based on The Times’ “protectionism” and election-rigging for Mr. Spitzer, among others. It also has been media-suppressed. The full record of the case is accessible from our website, via the sidebar panel “Suing The New York Times”.

Thank you.

Elena Sassower, Director
Center for Judicial Accountability, Inc. (CJA)
www.judgewatch.org
914-421-1200