Rene Hollyer passed along your letter to him of 1/7/02.

Apparently, I did not sufficiently mutilate the papers you provided to me last spring, but rather had the courtesy to return them to you in virtually the same condition in which I received them. Rather than thanking me for doing so, you saw fit to accuse me of lying about having reviewed your papers. I do not take kindly to scurrilous charges against me, and thus have no intention of responding to your correspondence or of wasting any further time even thinking about what I consider to be a baseless crusade on your part.

Steven C. Krane, President
New York State Bar Association
